

Central Tuscany: A Guide to Arezzo

A Guide to Arezzo Enjoy setting up a base and living in a hill town. After you have visited Florence, Pisa, Lucca, and Siena youre thinking about how to find some of the less visited sites and learn more about the lifestyle and culture, and watch traditions in action. This book suggests that you set up a base and live in a Tuscan hill town, if only for a few days. Here you discover the hill town of Arezzo, about 60 km southeast of Florence. Arezzo is large enough to have a lot to offer and small enough to maintain its age old traditions. This guide provides you with traditional information and with bonus material so you can ... cook with authentic recipes from my Italian cousins, learn about the culture from stories about traveling in Tuscany, find a place to stay with information on an agriturismo, a hotel, and a B&B, find good restaurants and pizzerias, use GPS coordinates to find your way around, order a caffe in a bar, participate in the evening passeggiata and local Saturday market, eat at the best osteria in Arezzo, La Capannaccia, get an idea on the mobile accessibility of sites Advantages of Arezzo

Location. Arezzo is nicely located for getting further into Tuscany. Its a short 45 minute train ride to Florence; 30 minutes by car from Cortona; 60 minutes from the Val dOrcia where many of the calendar page Tuscany lives; and 90 minutes from the wine region of Chianti. Nearby is Ponte Buriano, the bridge in the background of the Mona Lisa. Good Size. Arezzo is large enough to have a lot to offer in terms of culture, churches, museums, art, hotels, and restaurants; yet small enough to maintain age old traditions like closing for lunch, the evening passeggiata, Saturday markets, and Medieval festivals. Less Expensive. With Florence only 45 minutes away by train, you can stay in Arezzo for less. Moderately priced hotels and agriturismos abound, along with excellent restaurants. Art Treasures. The Basilica di San

Francesco houses Piero della Francesca's greatest work, The Legend of the True Cross. You can find works by many of the great Renaissance artists, e.g., Spinello, della Robbia, Vasari, and Marcillat, in the churches and the State Museum of Medieval and Modern Art. Festivals and Markets. Arezzo hosts a monthly Antique Fair, considered by many the most important in Italy with over 200 dealers winding all around the old city center. Twice a year the four neighborhoods compete in the Joust of the Saracino, complete with full Medieval regalia. Every evening the locals walk up and down Corso Italia in the passeggiata to visit with friends before dinner. Saturday mornings are for the large open air market selling everything from food to shoes to toys to kitchen wares.
